San Diego Full-Day Trip

By Alisa Garrett

We met at Seaforth Landing at 4:45 AM and were en route by 5:30 AM to the outside (West side) of the Coronado Islands. Matt was running the "San Diego." He found a few Bluefin biting along the way and we hooked probably 10. Continuing Southwest, Alisa hooked a dorado on the troll, which she landed. Several casts into a small kelp patty landed various anglers 3 more. Matt continued to find Yellowfin Tuna biting, picky, but somewhat steady. Everyone would hook up at once, a lot of tangles and lost fish. When it was about 3pm and time to head back, he turned the boat around and ran into a large biting school of Yellowfin. We had a chaotic 1.5 hours of pulling in fish, nice - size, 31-34 lbs. Most of us landed 2-3 each on this trip. Long ride, 4 hours, back to the dock, with us arriving at 9PM. Matt worked extra hard for us, allowing us to stay in the fishing grounds much longer than expected. The crew was excellent, and everyone went home with fish. Overall we caught approx. 90 fish, mixed Bluefin & Yellowfin Tuna. It was an exceptional day with 30 anglers onboard. Good to see our friends and catch up.

Wounded Warriors Islands Trip

By: Dwayne Patenaude

On Wed, Sept 22, 2021, the San Diego Anglers Foundation chartered the sport boat Liberty

(great boat name in honor of our guests), and we loaded up 25 Wounded Warriors for our fishing trip to the Islands. The paperwork for the island trip was processed in the office and away we went. We were going to the Islands, to look for yellowtail, bass, bonito and anything else that wanted to bite. Chad and Tim from Hookup Baits busted out the huge box of lures and we started tying them on the loaner spinning rods. By the time we got to the islands we were ready to go. I was in the wheelhouse with Capt. Anibal, and he started searching for yellows. We made a few stops, catching huge bonito and calico bass pretty much at every stop. As the boat searched around all the islands, it was obvious there were no yellowtail at the islands. I told him we would be stoked with calicos, so that is what he concentrated on.

The Calico fishing was pretty incredible that day. Everyone got lessons on how to fish them. “Don’t Blink on the Sink” was echoed throughout the morning as the warriors soon learned that the calicos were on the bottom and you just had to let the lure get close to the bottom and you had a bass. By noon, the volunteers that had joined us could not hand off a fish anymore as our guests had figured it out and were having a blast with the Hook Up Baits. By the end of the day, I am pretty sure that everyone had a limit of fish to bring home to eat. We did catch 2 yellowtail at the middle grounds at the end of the day and those soldiers were pretty stoked, to say the least! The deckhands started cleaning the bass and rockfish when we hit the border line, and we ended having to sit in San Diego Bay to finish cleaning as we made it back to Point Loma pretty fast.

We had a very special guest on board to join us from the Marine Corps, Col Willard Buhl. His accomplishments are as long as your leg, but he is very proud of his service in the “Thundering Third,” Third Battalion, First Marines, in the clearing of Fallujah, Iraq during Operation Iraqi Freedom. He had a lot of great stories to tell us as we traveled between spots. I cannot even imagine how much guts it takes to go door to door to clear the insurgents from the city in a 2-year span. He knew exactly how many Marines he lost in that endeavor and many of their names and stories. As a Marine he was an expert and he was eager to learn this new endeavor we call fishing, and by the end of the day, he had it down pretty well and was jacking the bass in the boat pretty fast. It was an honor to meet a legend in the Marine Corp. He told us how important these fishing trips are to their well being. He was pretty happy his guys all had smiles on their faces throughout the day. He thanked us many times for our service to help the wounded warriors!

I would like to thank the sponsors that made this trip happen: Ralph from Penske Ford in La Mesa, Josh from Miller Toyota in Anaheim for chartering the trip for the guys, Chad and JoJo from Hookup Baits for supplying all the lures that day, and Dave McMullen with Ocean Science International. It ended up being another fantastic trip for the Wounded Warriors and we can not wait to raise more money and get a schedule for next year!

2021 Lake Cuyamaca “Fishing in the Pines” Kids Derby

By: Dave Hanes

Hey there Gals & Guys Serving/Cooking/Prepping Team Members, Prep Day: (09:30am Friday the 24th) started out perfect at Al’s house with all our fillet masters: Dwayne Patenaude, Charlie Fouquette, Mike Kezele, Cliff Johnson, John Jones, Rudy Garcia, Bill Brown, Butch Paddock, Al Staz. and myself MIA, hanging with Barb hiding in the house, at Al Stasukevich’s Ponderosa. Once again, our refined process of filleting, marinating, & packing is nothing short of top shelf, according to Al. We got those beautiful Yellowtail, Yellowfin & Bluefin fillets cut, marinated, and bagged up for Saturday. I would say about 3-4hrs. later in the afternoon the sky darkened all around the county and the lightning and rain started, acting as if it was going to foul Butch and his staff’s Big Day. THANKS AGAIN, ALL YOU FILLET TEAM MEMBERS.

Game Day: WOW, Saturday, the 25th, at 0630 not much in the way of threatening weather :0) Yaaay! Off to Sonya’s Ramona Café to meet up with part of our gang, some of our other heavy hitters hit their regular Saturday morning hangout at Hwy. 67 Café. After a good solid energy boost, it’s on the road again and off to Julian to make the final turn heading to Lake Cuyamaca. A lot of us arrived approaching the lake about 9:45am, seeing the first glance of the anglers that we would be cooking and serving to/for. There was a fair number of anglers and vehicles coming into view, so we knew it was going to be another great event. The cooking and serving stations were starting to come alive, and set-up was well underway. Butch’s staff made it pretty darned easy again to grab a parking place and our tools, and we were off to the races of getting things prepared to cook for and serve to the mass amount of Little Fisherpersons, and their Families on that Great Mountainous Paradise. SO, THANK YOU VERY MUCH FOR THAT! The morning progressed, and before we knew it, the time had come to get busy with the task at hand of feeding some of 500-600 people.
